Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 08 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain, heavy at times, arriving overnight.

This Evening and Tonight:
Largely dry but cloudy this evening before a band of rain arrives from the north during the early hours. This band will reach the south of the region by dawn. Winds easing overnight and feeling chilly. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Friday:
Rain, becoming heavy at times, will persist over the south of the region before easing off throughout the afternoon. Elsewhere will be largely dry but cloudy. Feeling cold. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Perhaps cloudy on Saturday with outbreaks of heavy rain. Patchy cloud with scattered showers and sunny intervals on Sunday. Isolated showers on Monday with both cloudy and sunny periods. Cold.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.